Remember Who I am: Contest!

SUBMIT YOUR PICTURES: IMAGES OF WHO YOU ARE!

I want to get more community involvement — and at the same time reward my fans and I thought of this great way to do both! I am going to assemble a video of pictures, and words from those of you who find something that resonates from my music. For example I've attached a picture of me that was taken at a retreat where I was caught balancing on one foot, drinking a cup of coffee. It reminds me of that retreat and that feeling of relaxing balance that I try to get back to when my life gets crazy. So I would ask you to send me pictures of yourself that remind you who you are, who you can be, who you hope to be.

I will put them all together to the music of my song — Remember Who I am. You can also send me any affirmations or phrases (as long as they are not a copyright infringement). Also, as these are for compiling into a video I will need your permission to post your pictures within a video on YouTube and my website.

If your photos are chosen to be included in the video I will send out both of my CD's as a thank you and mention you in the credits at the end of the video.

You can send your photos and any message to mailto:dm_music@comcast.net. For an example of what the end result will look like, read on...

Release Party!

GOOD FOOD, GREAT FRIENDS, AND MUSIC!

All essential elements for a good time! As you can see we bunched up together into one end of the living room which gave us just enough space for guests, friends and neighbors. We asked some folks to bring extra chairs, everyone brought a dish and we had a lot of fun, only a few equipment malfunctions, and a small wine tasting in between sets! Our next home concerts for 2009 were being planned and we met some new friends of friends along the way!

Michael wowed our guests with his electric mandolin leads. Nina rocked the house with her new vintage kit and Grenville held the bottom on the bass.

Next stop for us will likely be Daly City or San Francisco.

If you are interested in hosting your own home concert, or maybe you'd like to arrange a show as a thank you for your team at work — send a message to mailto:dm_music@comcast.net.
